INSTRUCTIONS FOR PRINTING BULLETINS

Note: Print half as many lasers as needed since each sheet of paper has 2 bulletins. Printing on a light tan or cream colored paper will provide a more historical look.

If using a printer which prints 2-sided:
Print page 2 on the front side and page 3 on the back side—landscape (horizontal) printing.

If using a printer which prints 1-sided:
Print page 2, then flip paper, place back in tray and print page 3—landscape (horizontal) printing.

After printing, cut printed bulletins in half. A swing-arm cutter works best.

Bulletins are copyrighted material.
For permission to reprint any text or images, please contact:
Pamela R. Durso
by e-mail at pamdurso@baptisthistory.org or by phone at (678) 547-6095.
america’s democratic and pluralistic roots were first introduced in the New World in the 1630s. Peeling back the layers of history, one person emerges as central in the formulation of America’s foundations: Roger Williams. Little recognized, the story of Baptists in America is the story of American beginnings, with Williams at the center of both.

A former lawyer-turned-clergyman, Williams fled the Old World for the Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1631, where as a contrarian Separatist within the Church of England, he became increasingly critical of the merger of church and state. For five years, he modeled a radical faith focused upon liberty of conscience, acceptance and respect of persons of other faith, and opposition to state-supported religion. Finally, in 1636, the nettlesome Williams was labeled as a heretic and banished from Massachusetts.

Williams’s travails paved the way for his establishment of a new colony, Rhode Island. Modeled on the principles that, some 140 years later, would become the basis for a new nation, the new colony espoused democracy, pluralism, religious freedom, and separation of church and state. For Williams, these principles embodied the fledgling Baptist faith of which he had known of in England, and in 1639, embracing believer’s baptism, he established the first Baptist church in the New World. Existing yet today, the First Baptist Church of Providence, Rhode Island, is the beginning point for Baptists in America.

While Williams later left the church, colonial Baptists, despite long and intense persecution, carried forward his principles. These Baptists, as was true of Baptists in England, were ridiculed for rejecting infant baptism and heralding religious liberty, but because they were far from the center of Anglican power, they had more opportunities to assert their principles.

Generations of persecution passed and eventually that which Williams planted upon the shores of the New World matured into the foundations of the American nation. Today, his legacy also permeates Baptist life, embedded in our central practices of believer’s baptism and liberty of conscience and in our core beliefs of religious liberty and church-state separation.
The Center for Baptist Studies produces a free monthly e-journal, The Baptist Studies Bulletin, which is distributed through e-mail. The Center also offers an on-line certificate program in Baptist studies for both laity and clergy; timely and relevant educational conferences; and a website with valuable Baptist resources. For more information, visit www.centerforbaptiststudies.org.

The Baptist History and Heritage Society publishes a journal, Baptist History and Heritage, and newsletter, Baptist Heritage Update. The Society also has an informative website, which features an on-line resource catalog, a membership application, and a new series of articles titled “History Speaks to Hard Questions Baptists Ask.” For more information, visit www.baptisthistory.org.

To order this resource, e-mail pamdurso@baptisthistory.org or call 678-547-6095.

Baptist History and Heritage Society
3001 Mercer University Drive
Atlanta, GA 30341
www.baptisthistory.org
Charles W. Deweese, executive director
Pamela R. Durso, associate executive director-treasurer

The Center for Baptist Studies
Mercer University
1400 Coleman Avenue
Macon, GA 31207
www.centerforbaptiststudies.org
Bruce T. Gourley, interim director

The Baptist History and Heritage Society produces a free monthly e-journal, The Baptist Studies Bulletin, which is distributed through e-mail. The Center also offers an on-line certificate program in Baptist studies for both laity and clergy; timely and relevant educational conferences; and a website with valuable Baptist resources. For more information, visit www.centerforbaptiststudies.org.

The Baptist History and Heritage Society publishes a journal, Baptist History and Heritage, and newsletter, Baptist Heritage Update. The Society also has an informative website, which features an on-line resource catalog, a membership application, and a new series of articles titled “History Speaks to Hard Questions Baptists Ask.” For more information, visit www.baptisthistory.org.

The Center for Baptist Studies produces a free monthly e-journal, The Baptist Studies Bulletin, which is distributed through e-mail. The Center also offers an on-line certificate program in Baptist studies for both laity and clergy; timely and relevant educational conferences; and a website with valuable Baptist resources. For more information, visit www.centerforbaptiststudies.org.

The Baptist History and Heritage Society publishes a journal, Baptist History and Heritage, and newsletter, Baptist Heritage Update. The Society also has an informative website, which features an on-line resource catalog, a membership application, and a new series of articles titled “History Speaks to Hard Questions Baptists Ask.” For more information, visit www.baptisthistory.org.

To order this resource, e-mail pamdurso@baptisthistory.org or call 678-547-6095.

Baptist History and Heritage Society
3001 Mercer University Drive
Atlanta, GA 30341
www.baptisthistory.org
Charles W. Deweese, executive director
Pamela R. Durso, associate executive director-treasurer

The Center for Baptist Studies
Mercer University
1400 Coleman Avenue
Macon, GA 31207
www.centerforbaptiststudies.org
Bruce T. Gourley, interim director

This bulletin insert is the second of twelve to be provided monthly during 2009 by the Baptist History and Heritage Society and The Center for Baptist Studies. The article was written by Thomas A. Gourley, interim director of The Center for Baptist Studies, Mercer University.